

LGBTQ+ and working in religiously-affiliated workplaces?

Do you identify as LGBTQ+?

Do you work in a religiously affiliated workplace, such as a school, hospital or social service provider?

Would you like to share your experience with us?

We are conducting a survey to better understand the experiences of LGBTQ+ people in religiously affiliated workplaces. Examples of such workplaces include Christian and Islamic schools, private hospitals such as Catholic affiliated hospitals, social welfare agencies such as Anglicare, and aged care facilities such as Jewish or Salvation Army aged care.

We want to ensure that the voices of LGBTQ+ people are heard in current debates about LGBTQ+ rights and religious freedom.

The study is being conducted by academics at the University of Tasmania, in conjunction with the University of Sydney and University of Ottawa.

We are asking people to complete a survey - please go to either of the links below. It will take about 20 minutes to complete.

Complete survey:

https://utaseducation.co1.qualtrics.com/jfe/form/SV_e8xZND86flvi4t

If you would like to know more, please contact Professor Douglas Ezzy by email (douglas.ezzy@utas.edu.au) or Dr Bronwyn Fielder (bronwyn.fielder@utas.edu.au). University of Tasmania

Project ID: 23410

More Information is also available at our website:

Website Link: <http://lgbtandreligiousfreedom.com.au>

Facebook: <https://www.facebook.com/lgbtqworkplacesurvey>

